

DYLAN DOE

Dylan Doe (b. 1980, London) creates paintings that use the unconscious to reveal his interests in post-humanist themes - how the body evolves in relation to the objects and technology it creates, the merging of organic and inorganic forms and speculations on where this might lead.

Doe graduated from the University of Manchester with a bachelor in History, was the recipient of an AHRC scholarship for a Masters at the Cambridge School of Art and studied postgraduate education at the School of Design, Goldsmith's University.
